Present your information in an interesting way.

Build your own castle using a cardboard box remember to include all the different parts we have learned about, for example the drawbridge and the turrets.

Make a collage of a castle in its setting. Use a variety of old magazines or newspapers to make your picture stand out.

Write a daily timetable for the king of the castle. What time would they get up?
What time would he eat breakfast?
What activities might he do during the day?

Imagine you live in the castle. Could you write a letter to a friend describing life in the castle? Is it cold? Is it dark? What does your bedroom look like? Use your senses in your description to help the reader imagine your life in the castle.

Choose a person that would live in a castle and draw them. Remember the king and queen would have servants and cooks and jesters that would live within the castle walls.
